Truman To Receive Doctor Of Laws At Convocation

President To Receive Doctorate At Same Exercises As Daughter Graduates From Columbian College

BY NANCY HANCK
Member, Board of Editors

• ON MAY 29, Harry S. Truman, President of the United States, will receive the honorary degree of doctor of laws at the University's Convocation in Constitution Hall.

At the same time as the President is being so honored, Margaret Truman, his daughter, will receive her B. A. degree from Columbian College of the University.

The White House has not confirmed this report, however it has not been denied.

This will be the fourth honorary degree to be conferred on Mr. Truman within a month. White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross has announced that the President plans to fly to New York to accept a degree and make a speech at Fordham University at its centenary exercises on Saturday. He will also receive degrees from William Jewell College at Liberty, Mo., and from Washington College, Chestertown, Md. on May 20 and June 1 respectively.

The President will occupy a place of honor to receive his honorary doctorate, while Miss Truman will march in the academic procession with the students.

While at the University, Miss Truman has been a member of Pi Beta Phi Sorority and of Phi Pi Epsilon, foreign service sorority. At one time she was an active member of both the University Glee Club and Canterbury Club.

She will receive her B. A. degree with a major in history.

Peace Rally Hears Bowles, OES Director

• PRINCIPAL SPEAKER at the "Keep the Peace" rally, held at noon yesterday, was Chester Bowles, National Economic Stabilizer, who was introduced by Professor Edward Acheson, of the Economics Department.

Held in memory of University students who gave their lives in the Second World War, the rally reaffirmed intentions of keeping the peace by the students.

The meeting got under way with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner, led by Betty Lou Trowbridge, followed by the invocation given by Rabbi Norman Gerstenfeld.

Bud Friend, advocate of the Student Council, acted as chairman for the rally and introduced Mr. William Higginbotham, Chairman of the Federation of American Scientists.

A resolution reaffirming the students' determination to maintain the peace just won was presented to the student body by Larry Strickland, President-elect of the Student Council.

At the conclusion of the rally the chimes in nearby churches were sounded in tribute to those University students who gave their lives in the war, and the benediction was given by Rev. James Pike.

No Axe to Grind

• THERE WILL be no Hatchet next week. The next issue will appear on May 29 following commencement. For reason, see Exam Schedule, pages 7 and 8.

Veterans, Attention!

• THERE WILL BE no requisitions for books and supplies issued by the Veterans' office for the current year after Wednesday, May 15.

Foreign Service Veterans Review Draws Applications

• ANNOUNCEMENT has been made of the professors and classes for the foreign service review course for veterans. Professor Edward C. Acheson, the director of the review course and associate professor of finance, will teach foreign trade and foreign exchange. Professor Donald S. Watson and Professor Arthur E. Burns will teach economics. All are of the University's Economics Department. Dean Elmer Louis Kayser, of the History Department, will lecture on current affairs throughout the course. Professor Frank M. Weida's lectures will be "A Review of Mathematics and Statistics" from the Statistics Department. Professor Coberly of the English Department, will have classes in "Analysis of Written Material, Composition, and Vocabulary Building." Additional instructors will be announced later to review European and American history and geography.

Most of these professors were connected with highly successful private schools which prepared men for Foreign Service Examinations. All have had experience in this type of teaching.

About 80 to 100 letters a day have been coming in about the school. There was one letter from a soldier now on Guam and one from a soldier in Italy who had heard about the school from a broadcast.

Nine out of ten of the men who want to take the examination are overseas veterans. Three out of ten state that they had no interest in diplomacy until the war. 75 per cent of the men applying are G.I.s, not commissioned men.

There have been applications from men who have served in every theater. A large number of the applicants took part in the European and Mediterranean campaigns. Many of the men have served in Burma, quite a number in China and a few in India. Fewer were from the Pacific.

In view of the large number of applications the faculty is trying to limit the size of the course. Professor Acheson is particularly interested in the University veterans taking the examination.

University May Lose Department

• RECENTLY APPOINTED as Associate Professor of Portuguese at the University, Mr. J. Silvado Bueno has already taken over his duties. One of his tasks will be to increase interest in the study of Portuguese at the University. If no more interest is shown than has been in the past the department will have to be discontinued.

A native of Sao Paulo, Brazil, Mr. Bueno studied in the United States, and was graduated with an M. A. degree from the University of Iowa in 1924. In succeeding years, Mr. Bueno taught romance languages in Iowa, Indiana, and Florida. Then he returned to Brazil, where he was connected with the Brazilian Civil Service Commission.

At the beginning of the war he was appointed Executive Secretary of the Brazilian Commission of Inter-American Development, working closely with American and Brazilian war agencies. In 1944 he came to New York as a delegate to the Conference of the Commission of Inter-American Development at which Nelson Rockefeller presided. Mr. Bueno remained in this country to continue his work with Inter-American activities and last September was appointed Foreign Trade Adviser of the Pan American Union.

• THE 1946 ISSUE of The Cherry Tree will be distributed in the Student Club Monday, May 13, 11:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m., and from 5:00-7:00 p.m. on Tuesday, May 14.

Veterans Club Elects New Officers; Layos, Harrison To Head Organization

• HEADING THE Veterans Club for the coming year will be Joe Layos who was elected president last Wednesday at the regular meeting of the club. He defeated Hal Harrison, who was then elected vice president. Mr. Harrison was opposed by James O'Brien.

Joy Dooley, secretary of the Veterans Club, was reelected to that office. She ran against Al Guerra.

For the office of treasurer of the club, Al Guerra was unanimously elected.

Mr. Layos, in a statement to The Hatchet, said that he would exert all his efforts toward improving the Veterans Club, and that if any of the members have anything to discuss with him he will be glad to do so.

Outgoing officers of the club are Bill Long, president; Loyd Price, vice-president; Joy Dooley, secretary; and Zebb Harris, treasurer.

The next meeting of the club will be June 5 in Government 101, and meetings will continue throughout the summer sessions.

Marvin Discusses 'Oakwood;' Lists Farming Characteristics

By JIM PUGHE

• WHILE DRIVING between Rockville and Germantown, Maryland, one of the most picturesque spots you're likely to see is Oakwood Farms, proud possession of Dr. Cloyd H. Marvin, President of the University.

The farm is on an open rolling section of land that slopes down to Seneca Creek, one boundary. There are three other streams on the farm, two of which originate from large springs. The site of the largest spring was a historical spot during the Revolutionary War, when it was used as a camping ground by the American soldiers, and again by both sides during the Civil War.

Of the 330 acres on Oakwood Farms, 225 are under cultivation. The land is farmed under a crop rotation system, with corn, barley, oats, and wheat being the chief grains. Clover, timothy, alfalfa, and lespedeza are the hay crops used for pasture. Dr. Marvin has developed a strain of wheat which is quite outstanding in its rust-resistant qualities.

Of the many types of livestock raised and bred on the farm, one of the most outstanding is the Hampshire Rega sheep. Dr. Marvin imported this breed from England and has been particularly interested in seeing it developed here in the United States, and especially in this community.

Other classes of livestock for which Oakwood Farms is quite noted are its thoroughbred Poland China Hogs which number between 200 and 400, six thoroughbred Percheron mares, which produce fine colts sold on the market, and a herd of 80 Hereford steers and heifers which the farm buys in the west and ships east where they are fed for two years before becoming steaks on your dinner table. Dr. Marvin says he doesn't want to seem boastful but he has one of the best Frezian Holstein bulls in the area.

A long lane leads to the entrance to the farm and leads up to the barns, granary, and other buildings, then continues through the entire length of the farm. With the use of this lane one attendant can transfer livestock from any of the numerous fields into any other without assistance, which makes for the efficient operation of the farm. There is a home for the manager and other employees, and Dr. Marvin has his own house which is a complete living unit. The farm is completely electrified, has its own water system, and is totally fenced with woven wire fencing.

In discussing the operation of the farm, Dr. Marvin said that in this day and age to be an efficient farmer it is also necessary to be a good chemist, a good mechanic.

Vol. 42, No. 27 Thursday, May 9, 1946

Interpretations Differ

• THERE IS NO ONE ON campus from a lowly freshman to the most exalted senior who does not find something to criticize. Each has his own opinion about something—some opinions are radical, some are temperate. When the editor attempts to set forth his opinions on what should and should not be changed he bumps into a thousand and one varying opinions. Everyone interprets an idea to suit himself—and the interpretations usually vary in many ways from that intended.

Looking back over the year, there are many memories of unbounded praise from some students, vitriolic accusations of administrational pressure from other students, faculty praise, and presidential disapproval coming through various and sundry official channels. Oh, how true were those words of he who exclaimed over "the mystic difficulty of using words for matters of communication!" One always takes his own view and reads into the lines an attack upon his own feathered little nest.

In our opinion the following are

WANTED!

. . . additional library space in which students can study (we repeat our suggestion of using the Graduate Council and Trustees' rooms) and a remodeling of library lighting before every student becomes a near-sighted bore.

. . . a plan whereby students in the last semester of their senior year would be required to take only nine hours of work, be exempted from class attendance, and could consequently devote their time, not to being frivolous in the Student Club or elsewhere, but to serious reading that was not possible during the preceding crowded years of study. Other universities have found that this works quite well.

. . . an increase in faculty salaries to retain those men who are valuable to the University and to attract other full-time or visiting professors who could do much for improving our educational standing. (This was rehashed at a recent faculty meeting where the plan was to increase salaries 15%—the, or a, plan is now before the Board of Trustees.)

. . . University representatives who improve and maintain our respectable name by appearing neatly and correctly dressed both on campus and in public.

. . . a large curriculum to include the Sociology Department for which, according to official sources, we have been seeking an instructor for four years; the Journalism Department, and music, religion, and other courses the students have stated are needed for a well-rounded curriculum. Everyone is earnest in his demand for expanded facilities to justify the increased tuition rates. If no obvious justification comes, the students may be expected to rebel.

. . . a University-sponsored cultural program, free to all students, at which the finest in music, art, and drama would be available to soothe the neglected aesthetic side of our college life. (Some minor steps along this line are now being planned for next year.)

. . . a student union (we have suggested, in three recent editorials, renting the old Western Presbyterian Church, now used by the U.S.O.) to give the the students more recreational space while waiting for a miracle that will finance and build the desired Activities building.

. . . a literary magazine for those wishing to delve into the field of creative writing not available through The Hatchet or The Cherry Tree.

. . . a University bookstore to decrease the cost of books and to handle more effectively and more conveniently the supplying of books.

. . . a room, properly equipped and open daily for exclusive use as a place of worship. Such a room would solve the need at the University for a Chapel building—a project still far in the future.

Inside Track On . . .

DOTTIE HENRY

• TWO YEARS AGO, when she was a freshman, we got our first glimpse of a little gal, twenty-ish, blondeish, with big brown eyes that sparkled and danced and did all kinds of things that you read about, but seldom see eyes do. We wouldn't have known, from her manner, that she was quite as bewildered by it all as we, for her funny laugh and her friendly manner put us at ease at once. That's Dottie Henry.

With all the sincerity we can muster up, we'll state here and now that to our mind, Dottie is the essence of what this particular University needs. After spending a couple of years with one of the war agencies, she started night classes, soon joined a sorority (Delta Zeta), then began to branch out. We've been happy to see one gal who doesn't need any editorials written to perk up her spirit and her pride in being a student here.

By now a full-time student, she's progressed to News Editor of The Hatchet, Historian-Editor of Delta Zeta, vice-president of the Strong Hall Dorm Council, and a member of Big Sisters. All that at the present time, in addition to past membership in Cue and Curtain and staff member for The University Handbook and The Summer School Record.

Dottie is a whiz bang at all kinds of things that make people interesting. Her rhumba arouses at least inward whistles (you can't put that sound on paper); her outdoor interests range to fishing and hiking; she can make with all kinds of accents—Irish, Cockney, etc. Her favorite love is flitting around in jeans, her pet hate, insincerity.

Intent and forceful in whatever she's doing, she offsets that seriousness with the most incomparable sense of fun we've ever, ever seen.

Should we predict a future for Miss H., we'd make it one of two things—a housewife who's a charming hostess and a terrible cook; or a Congresswoman who'd put Clare Boothe Luce to utter shame.

R. G.

ORCHIDS TO

the most obliging creature on campus—Virginia Kirkbride, Director of Women's Activities.

the Dean of the School of Government for the magnificent program now being worked out for majors in that division. This has increased the School's prestige already and will end by making it the finest in the country.

Frances Barr, the unpublicized brain behind the Registrar—she manages all the routine work connected with the keeping of student records.

Dr. Quam and Dean Koenig for the marvelous work in developing the Geography Department—it was sadly needed and has met with tremendous enthusiasm. Dean Koenig, incidentally, has taken the campus by storm.

the Allegany Ballistics Lab technicians and Dr. Van Evera's fine work on behalf of the University and the war effort.

last, but not least, Myrna Pauline Sedgwick, Administrative Secretary who does, and knows, everything. It is she on whom the burden of running the University really falls.

The Chopping Block

By Herb Halberstadt

• "THE CHOPPING BLOCK'S" COMMENTS and criticism of the Student Council were apparently ill-received by at least one member, to judge from the blistering letter which Student Comptroller Joe Holtzman wrote us. Mr. Holtzman took exception to the fact that I "failed to see . . . that there was a doubt as to the political affiliations and purpose of the original sponsors." (N. B., the authors of the circular letter sent out by members of student organizations on other campuses.) He continues, "I am not trying to make a mountain out of a molehill and infer that some radical elements were primarily interested in the sponsorship, but the fact remains that many members were afraid of this and so rightly refused to sponsor it."

I hereby apologize to Mr. Holtzman for any aspersions which were cast on his integrity by my remarks. I am doing this because I believe he was really sincere in questioning this sponsorship. But the fact remains that of the seven members of the Council who attended that meeting only one did not object on the ground that he was already overburdened with end-of-the-year work; only three did not claim that the Council was "legally and morally responsible for the success or failure of the rally" if they passed the resolution. One member questioned the right of the Council to initiate such action without a previous poll of the student body; and four stated that they were considering the possibility that the Administration might frown on such a resolution. Perhaps the members did question the background of the sponsors. If so only the Comptroller and one other member made it clear.

Mr. Holtzman also states that "the same question was brought up again at the following Council meeting. At that time sufficient evidence of student interest and sponsorship was presented and in no time passed by the Council." I beg to differ with the Comptroller, but his "no time" was thirty minutes by my watch. Speaking of "failing to see," I would like to point out that in the interval between meetings the question had been taken to President Marvin and the students sponsoring the rally had been told by him that the Council had jurisdiction.

It seems to me now, as it did then, that the time spent was completely wasted. Do not get the idea, Mr. Holtzman, that this means that I oppose the idea of a Peace Rally or that I am in favor of "railroading" motions through the Council, because neither statement is correct. I think that the idea of the rally is excellent and I am a strong proponent of free discussion—when necessary. It is true, however, that the prolonged argument at the first meeting and the half-hour rehash last week were an absolute waste of time, since the same statements were merely repeated over and over. In the first ten minutes of each meeting everyone expressed their feelings and knew how the others felt.

I sincerely hope that next year's Student Council will not waste so much time on matters that can be decided very quickly. 'Nuff said?

Several times this past semester, I have been critical of the Student Council on one matter or another. Since the Council is going out of office now, this would be a good time to balance the budget. In an earlier column I said, "In sports terms I would call the return of sports a win for the Council, the Assembly program a loss, and the class officers plan a tie. In a more familiar classification, let us say that the Council gets a B for Effort, and a C Minus for Performance."

I would now like to revise this statement. The class officers, while not too well supported by their classmates, have gone ahead and tried to get the various classes together and have planned several undertakings for them. We could now classify this plan as a close win. The Spring Prom was a definite success and I would now, therefore, give the Council a B Plus for Effort and a B for Performance. To the members of the Council who are graduating, goodbye, good luck, and our best wishes.

ONIONS TO

the Public Relations Office for refusing to cooperate on press release dates.

the students for neglecting, as usual, to get in and dig on activity plans.

the faculty in general for never showing much interest in student activities.

everyone for never taking any definite steps to improve the esprit de corps and camaraderie that could and should exist here.

Dramatist To Award Tomorrow

Elect Members, Nominate Officers At Final Meeting

• CUE AND CURTAIN had its last general meeting of the 1945-46 season Thursday night of last week. Points for membership were discussed and Mimi Branson, president, announced that approximately ninety students have earned their points this year and are now active members.

Participation of Cue and Curtain in the "I Am An American" day proceedings on May 19th was also discussed. Mr. Sparks wants every available person to take part in the skit, which Cue and Curtain has been called upon to present.

Tentative plans were made for closed nights for Cue and Curtain plays to be given next year, and nominations were made for new officers. Lloyd Price, Jane Drew and Bob Cordell were nominated for the office of president; Jack Weir, Jane Summers and Frank Falkenhainer for vice-president, and Sue Massaneau and Janet Glisson for secretary.

Results of the balloting which took place last night at the membership meeting will be announced at the annual Cue and Curtain banquet, which is open to all members. The banquet is to be given tomorrow night, 8:30 p.m., at The Highlands, Connecticut Avenue and California St., N. W.

The Executive Council selected the best actor and actress in a leading role for the year and the best actor and actress in a supporting role. Awards will be given to those four persons at the banquet, as well as to the president and the director.

Chi Omega, SAE Win Annual Sing; Kappas Place

• LED BY TOMMIE Haines, Chi Omega sorority sang their way to first place in the annual Panhellenic sing held on April 30 in Lisner Auditorium. The winning songs were "Jealousie" and "Sweetheart of Chi Omega." This is the second consecutive year that Chi Omega sorority has won the Panhellenic sing cup. Kappa Kappa Gamma, attired in white and led by Maria Baum, sang their own arrangement of "All The Things You Are" and "Medley of Kappa Songs" to win second place. Sigma Kappa, gowned in black formals with pink sashes and long pink gloves, won third place singing "Someday" and "Sigma Kappa Rainbow."

First place in the fraternity competition was won by Sigma Alpha Epsilon singing "Winter Song" and "Medley of Fraternity Songs." Sigma Chi was second with the "Whiffenpoof Song" and a "Medley of Sigma Chi Songs." Theta Delta Chi fraternity also participated.

Engineers Hold Dinner At Roger Smith Hotel

• ANNUAL ENGINEER'S banquet was held last Saturday at the Roger Smith Hotel. Master of ceremonies, Dan Andrich, introduced the guest speaker, Mr. A. F. E. Horn, president of the Washington Society of Engineers, whose topic was "Human Engineering."

He spoke primarily on the human element of engineering, and mentioned such important points as how engineers should act, their correct manners of speech and dress, and their place in the community.

Awards were presented at the banquet to many outstanding engineers. Ben Sorin was presented a handbook by the A.S.M.E. for the best student paper submitted in a recent contest. He will now represent the University at Bucknell University on May 25. If he wins first place there, he will be sent to the nation-wide conference in Detroit on June 12.

John Goff was awarded a junior membership in the parent chapter of A.S.M.E. This award is made each year to the outstanding graduating engineer.

Bob Kemelhor, retiring president of A.S.M.E., was honored by the parent chapter for his services rendered to the mechanical engineers.

The A.S.C.E. handbook for the best student paper went to Ervin Liljegren. The best senior paper was submitted by Harrem Miklofsky, who was presented with an award.

The professional and honorary engineering fraternities both made presentations to outstanding members. Theta Tau presented John Doane, its retiring president, with a 6-inch slide rule for being chosen the outstanding graduating Theta Tau. Sigma Tau honored Kenneth Bonwit for his outstanding freshman scholarship. The men initiated into Sigma Tau before the banquet were presented also at this time.

Guests at the banquet included alumni of the University now in the Bureau of Ordnance. Among those attending was Mr. Gerard, head engineer of the Bureau.

Saturday's banquet was the first in the history of the School of Engineering that has been attended by women.

Poll Requests Student Ideas On Editorial

BY LOUISE CLARK

• IN RESPONSE to the editorial of April 25, entitled "Campus Stepchildren," students were asked to express their opinions on the subject of the library. The questions, do you think the library should be kept open on Saturday and Sunday afternoons, and should new rooms, possibly on the 5th and 6th floors of the library, be used to accommodate the overflow, were answered in most cases with an emphatic "Yes."

Marianna Sherman, freshman—I feel that the library should remain open Saturday and Sunday afternoons and Sunday evening so that students who need to do back work can use the weekend to its fullest advantage. I also think that all of the rooms in the library should be made available to all students at all times.

Anne Hirst, sophomore—The library should be kept open Saturday and Sunday afternoons because that is the only time that many people can really study for any length of time. Other rooms should be opened for students who have no other place to study when the first and second floors of the library are full.

Jane Hyman, freshman—I think the library should be kept open, because night students have no other time free to use it. I do not think it is necessary to open other rooms if the library is kept open these days.

Glee Club To Present 26th Dance

Harmon Leads Annual Concert At Shoreham

BY DOROTHY HENRY
News Editor

• WEEKS OF INTENSIVE practice, interspersed with a number of public appearances, will culminate tonight in the 26th annual Glee Club concert and dance.

Promptly at 8:45 p.m., in the West Ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel, Dr. Robert H. Harmon will lead the 100-voice chorus into the opening number, "God Bless Our Native Land." His accompanist, as always, will be Mrs. Grace Rubie Harmon. An hour and a quarter later the men and women will traditionally close the concert with the thrilling "Kamenoi Ostrow," and the floor will be cleared for three hours of dancing to the music of Red Barron and his Orchestra.

Tickets to the entire performance are $1.20 per person, and may be obtained at the Alumni Office, from any member of the clubs, and between 12 and 2 p.m. and 5 and 7 p.m. in the Student Club and at Lisner Auditorium.

As is indicated in the program the fourteen selections are divided almost evenly between religious and secular music. Eight of the numbers will have a religious theme, and this is due, according to Dr. Harmon, to the fact that the vast majority of great choral music has been written down through the years for church choirs.

Dr. Harmon will be conducting the clubs for the 22nd time. He took over direction of the men's club in 1924 while a senior in medical school, and has been with it ever since. Under his direction the club progressed from an organization of less than a dozen men to a full chorus of sixty voices, at which number it stood at the outbreak of the war. As it grew in numbers so it did in quality, and in 1930 the men's chorus of the University was adjudged the finest college group in the country, winner of the Intercollegiate Championships held that year in Carnegie Hall in New York City. In subsequent years the club finished second and third, and never did it finish out of the money.

These nationwide contests were discontinued in 1935. In 1941, however, the combined clubs were rated among the first four or five college groups in the country by one of Washington's outstanding music critics.

The women's club came under the direction of the Harmons in 1928 and quickly reached its standard size of 60 voices. Mixed choral presentations became the rule. Rich in solo talent and composed almost entirely of full-time students, the women's club has been the backbone of the organization, especially during the war years.

The men's club has made the first important strides towards regaining its strength with the return of a number of its veterans from the war.

Doctor Charles Louis Critchfield, Authority On Atomic Energy, To Teach At University

Professor Predicts Extensive Future For Atomic Energy

By SYBELLA CLAYTON

• WE OF THE University are especially proud to welcome Doctor Charles Louis Critchfield, for two reasons: First, because he is an alumnus of the University; second, because he was an important contributor in the Los Alamos atom-bomb project.

Dr. Critchfield received his Ph.D. here in 1939. He was then supposed to go to Copenhagen on a scholarship but the war, unfortunately, intervened. Instead, he went to Rochester as an instructor. Then followed quite a succession of positions. As a National Research Fellow he went to Princeton University; then to Harvard where he taught mathematical-physics.

From 1943 until he accepted the University teaching post he worked at Los Alamos, New Mexico. As a matter of fact, Dr. Critchfield claims he is still not used to the low altitude.

Dr. Critchfield's research interest is in field theory. At the University he teaches quantum mechanics, and optics and would like very much to begin a seminar in nuclear energy. This course would include as much of the atom-bomb research as the War Department would permit.

As for the atom-bomb, Dr. Critchfield believes we have "barely scratched the surface" in atom research. One thing he emphasizes is that atom-bombs are very cheap for their effects. Moreover there are a great many peace-time applications of the theory. Principally atom energy would be used to supply power at low cost. There are medicinal uses, too.

It was interesting to learn from Dr. Critchfield that the beginning work on the atom-bomb was originally discussed at the University (at an annual physics meeting held in the Hall of Government in January, 1939). He believes that Germany will be best equipped to compete with us in atom research.

Outdoor Sports Absorb Interest of Doctor Critchfield

Besides physics the professor is chiefly interested in outdoor activities. In Los Alamos he did a good deal of fishing and hunting.

Dr. Critchfield is married and owns a home in Washington.

Soldiers Choose Sue Burgess As May Queen; Select Moberly, Beams As Runners-Up

Strickland Presents Crown at Festival In Auditorium

• AT THE MAY DAY assembly in Lisner Auditorium last Friday evening, Sue Burgess of Kappa Kappa Gamma, was crowned May Queen by Larry Strickland, master of ceremonies. Jean Moberly, Alpha Delta Pi, and Joanne Beams, Chi Omega, were runners-up. All of the candidates served as attendants to the queen.

Each year the queen is picked by a different group. This year the contestants were taken to Walter Reed Hospital, where a group of soldiers chose Miss Burgess from the candidates from each sorority.

At the assembly, President Cloyd Heck Marvin welcomed the high school students who were guests of the University, and who plan to come here next year. He stated that he believed that young men and women should come to college to learn self-discipline. Dr. Marvin also mentioned briefly the role the University has played in the development of the atomic bomb, and displayed a sample of Uranium 238 to the audience.

Dr. Myron Koenig, Dean of the Junior College, asked some students in the audience what they expect to get out of college. After four inquiries he finally got the answer he wanted from one of the high school guests, "Just what I put into it." This, said Dr. Koenig, is exactly what you will get out of college, and out of life.

After the May Queen was crowned, the Men's Glee Club sang four numbers, "Eight Bells," "Away Rio," "Old Man Noah" and "The Rosary," by Ethelberton Nevin.

Cue 'n' Curtain then presented two selections from their last play, "Richard III." In the first of these, Mimi Branson as Lady Anne and Andrew Lantz as Richard did a scene from the beginning of the first act, and in the second, Leo Gallenstein, taking the part of Clarence, enacted a soliloquoy in "The Tower." Betty Lou Trowbridge and Bob McClellan sang "Who Cares," and a duet from "Of Thee I Sing."

After Mortar Board tapped new members everyone sang the Alma Mater, and the audience dispursed to the Student Club and the gymnasium for the carnival. $297.98 was collected from the carnival. This money will be donated to the food drive for Europe.

In the gymnasium, Kappa Kappa Gamma's freak show was the most popular affair. They presented five amusing skits, among them sawing the woman in half, and the only living mummy (and daddy).

Reporter Explores Grounds; Finds Flowers, Grass, Air

BY JEANETTE RAYNER

• FOLLOWING THE GENERAL tendency of students towards seeking great wide open space, I varied my usual course of going from building to building via our system of mole-tunnels and ventured timidly into the ozone. In case there are still some of you who haven't tried it, may I say that the atmosphere is decidedly different from that in the Stupid Club. It seems that the addition is that of air.

As regards what you see when you do emerge, first let me mention the grass. This is necessary because unless you're unusually observant, you won't make its acquaintance by direct contact, thanks to a series of treacherous little fences. These are placed knee-high with malicious intent to render students late to class even later by preventing shortcuts. If I seem bitter it's only because I have already taken several rather ungraceful nose-dives.

Next we boast some very lovely rosebeds, which of late have sported no less than roses. The only person who has had first-hand contact with these horticultural specimens is a black-and-yellow and white feline of uncertain parentage and antecedents, as I observed from luring the creature over by waving a piece of bread at it. She was not communicative on how it felt to have life "just a bed of roses."

In addition to these features, we boast some very respectable ivy, which if it keeps on its present course, in a few years will give us an appearance of age more in keeping with the date of founding of the University. Although as a side line, it's probably just as well that the appearance of existence for 125 years has not been preserved by keeping the original buildings!

Noticing, however, the sudden change in temperature, I decided to cut short my observation of the grounds, and return to the comparative warmth of our subterranean recreation room. See you outdoors on July 4th. It should be comfortably tepid by then.

Orchesis Elects Clayton As Business Manager

• AT ELECTION OF OFFICERS held last Monday in Columbian House, Orchesis elected Sybella Clayton as business manager for 1946-47. Her assistants are Agnes Ayre, business manager of Orchesis II, and Ruth Ritchie, business manager of Orchesis III.

Others elected: Clara O'Neil, talent scout; Nancy Hanck, assistant talent scout; Louise Whiting, make-up manager; Joann Beames, assistant make-up manager; Eleanor Erickson, publicity manager, and Gene Patermaster, costume manager.

Elections were held at a combination business meeting and tea. Miss Elizabeth Burtner, director of Orchesis, discussed schools with summer dance programs for those interested. Announcement was also made of the creation of an intermediate group to be known as Orchesis III and a Square Dance group. The entire Orchesis organization will now consist of six groups, Orchesis I, Orchesis II, Orchesis III, Junior Dance Group, Men's Group and the Square Dance Group.

Orchesis III, as an individual unit, will contain those students who, while not up to the technical ability of Orchesis II, are sufficiently advanced to warrant separation from Junior Dance Group. The interest aroused by the dance, "Square Dance Tonight," presented in the recent Orchesis concert, has prompted Miss Burtner to organize a regular Square Dance group which, it is hoped, will compete next year with similar groups at the Swarthmore College Festival, which is held every season.

Reid Baldridge Of Sigma Nu To Head IFC

• REID BALDRIDGE, Sigma Nu, was elected president of the Interfraternity Council to succeed Larry Strickland at the meeting held last Thursday evening in Columbian House.

Chosen vice-president for the coming year was Roland Fields of Pi Kappa Alpha. Hugh McLaughlin, Kappa Sigma, was elected secretary; Robert Flanders of Theta Delta Chi, treasurer; George Carter, Tau Kappa Epsilon, social chairman; and Craig Brown, Sigma Chi, activities chairman.

Committees were appointed to work with Alumni Interfraternity Council members to establish a post war plan for fraternities on the campus. They will handle all phases of fraternity life in college and will submit reports and recommendations. The only other known plan of this kind in the country is one developed by the University of Michigan recently.

The Rush Rules Committee recommeneded a delay of three weeks before beginning fall rushing. Closed nights among the fraternities for rush functions was also suggested. This plan is an inovation by the Council.

Ten fraternities and one affiliation, the Arganauts, are now active on campus and members of the Interfraternity Council and will participate in fall rushing activities.

Mothers and Sons Agree on The Boys' Store for Clothing

The reason is simple and practical. Both mothers and sons find, in The Boys' Store, a happy combination of things each feels are important. Mothers demand wear and durability, clothes that fit properly. Young men want "he-man" styling. What better reasons then, to come to The Boys' Store when you shop.

• HARASSED BY THE troubles of the Student Council, Mortar Board and PanHel, in addition to her regular duties, Miss Kirkbride walked into her crowded office on the day of the May festival. Her mind on a thousand problems, her hands busy arranging the May Queen's flowers, the Director of Women's Activities remarked (to no one in particular) "What did you want honey?" and looked up at the person standing before her. It was Registrar Jarman. The ultra-respectable Dr. Jarman just howled. Two new students, making applications for dormitory rooms, gaped; Miss Kirkbride, mortified, wished she were in China. The parting shot came when, upon leaving, the Registrar quipped, "Thanks—— honey."

This is my last column for The Hatchet. Doing these short stories has been fun, but it was one of my deepest regrets that more people didn't get mentioned—that there was so much repetition of names. Unfortunately my contacts are limited to my classes and activities and despite constant queries not too often were outside items contributed. We have felt that human interest notes are needed to enlighten student life. It is with this thought that I hereby offer "my" column for similar use to next year's Editors. Best wishes and good hunting.

thoroughly familiar with the field of animal husbandry, in addition to being a good business man.

President Marvin's main interest in Oakwood Farms is to see that it does as much as possible toward building up the livestock of the community and the development of more productive crops. But in addition to this he enjoys riding around the farm on horseback and watching over the management.

Many times he has been asked by his friends just why he has a farm and why he is so interested in it. In answer to the queries, Dr. Marvin plans some day when time will permit, to write a short volume: "A Farm! What It Is."

G.W. Takes Volleyball; Hoyas Win Basketball

• WITH A GREAT display of athletic fervor, the University, Georgetown, and American University met last Saturday afternoon to decide the city champions in a variety of sports. Volleyball, basketball, and ping pong contests were waged in bitter matches as the Buff and Blue represented by the Theta Delts won the volleyball meet, and the Hoyas took both the basketball and ping pong contests.

In the first matches of the afternoon the Theta Delts defeated Georgetown 15-10, 15-5 in two walkaway games. The University sextet trounced American University 21-17 in the first of their set. Apparently a trifle too certain of themselves, they lost the second match of the contest to the fighting A. U. six, 21-9. This loss sobered them and they came back to win the final game 21-15. Stars for the winning team were Ralph O'Brien and Tommy Hurt, while Phillips of A. U. and the O'Hare brothers of Georgetown sparked their respective attacks.

In the ping pong games Georgetown took two out of three games from American U. 25-23, 18-21, and 21-15. Quintrell of the Theta Delts fought all the way, losing to the Georgetown man in the best three of five: 31-29, 21-19, 24-26, 12-21, and 21-19.

Georgetown played a fast basketball game to defeat American University 17-12. Kerns was high scorer for Georgetown with seven markers, while Riccouci of the A. U. quintet, bested him with eight points.

Golfers Win Two Contests

• UNIVERSITY GOLF TEAM after winning their first game several weeks ago, came through again last week as they defeated Johns Hopkins University and Maryland U. in two run-away matches. In the first contest the Buff and Blue golf team took all matches, though they had to finish out many of the games to win the decision. In the game with neighboring Maryland, the University squad was set back in only one match, and they won their third game of the season.

Members of the student body are urgently requested to apply for positions on the staff. Applicants should see Mr. Duncan in building D, Room 404, about 10:30 a. m. any week day.

In The Locker Room

With Barnes

• THE OLD SPORTS ADAGE, "every fan will back a winner," is only another saying if we compare the student support given athletics, both varsity and intramural, here at the University. The University has taken the athletic leadership among the four district colleges during the past year and is on the threshold of producing some of the better varsity squads in the east and south in the next few years, but not one student in ten seems to care.

The intramural program not only offers an opportunity for all in every possible sport here at the University, but also affords intramural competition with other district colleges. There are approximately two hundred students taking full advantage of this situation. Is there any wonder at the reluctance of the University to attempt to build for the school a good athletic program? Why not stop and take stock of the situation by making plans now to back the athletic department in the coming year!

All-Star Teams

Last week the athletic department finally got around to naming their all-star basketball and volleyball teams, and, after looking them over, it would have been better for all concerned if these teams had never been announced. Each team had one man represented on these stellar squads. This is like picking an All-American football team and being able to mention either Doc Blanchard or Glen Davis from Army, for on such a basis both men could not be chosen as they are from the same team. How anyone could leave John Donohue off the basketball quintet or either Ralph O'Brien or Johnny Moffatt off the volleyball team is beyond comprehension. However, why not work out some system whereby the captains of each team, the referees, and the intramural directors might vote together and pick a group, truly representative of the season's play!
